DEDICATION TUESDAY OF CORCORAN HALL

Naming Building, John B. Larner Gives Keys to President Lewis, With Speech

DEGREES FOR 79

President Lewis, In Addressing The Graduates, Urges Quiet Thinking

The formal dedication of Corcoran Hall, accompanied by the ancient ceremony of the transference of the keys, and followed by the annual October convocation, took place last Tuesday in the auditorium of the new building before a gathering of many of the most prominent citizens of Washington, trustees, faculties and students of George Washington University. On behalf of the Board of Trustees, John B. Larner, its president, dedicated and named the building and presented the keys to President Lewis.

"By authority and on behalf of the Board of Trustees, I hereby dedicate this building to the uses and purposes of the Department of Arts and Sciences of the George Washington University and give to it the name of 'Corcoran Hall.' With these words by Mr. Larner, the newest addition to the University was officially recognized as Corcoran Hall and turned over to the administrative officers for the fulfillment of its purpose in the life of George Washington University.

Mr. Larner's address contained, for the most part, a sketch of the life of William Wilson Corcoran, for whom the building is named, and who is well known to all Washingtonians as the greatest philanthropist the city has ever known. Particularly among those connected with the University is his name a familiar one.

William Wilson Corcoran was an Irish American, son of Thomas Corcoran, who was one of the founders of the University and a trustee during his life. Following the inclinations of his father, young Corcoran early proved himself a true friend of George Washington, not only through his substantial gift for its endowment but through various smaller donations in times of financial stress.

One fact that has never been widely known was brought out by the president of the Board of Trustees. "I doubt very much," he said, "if there is anyone here this evening who recalls the fact that the trustees at one time desired to change the name of the college from 'Columbian' to 'Corcoran University,' and that Mr. Corcoran declined the honor and suggested the name of 'Columbian University.' This suggestion was later carried out by an act of Congress."

Following his dedication of Corcoran Hall, Mr. Larner presented the keys to Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of the University, thereby following an old and established custom and adding a certain picturesque interest to the occasion. In connection with this he said that "this symbolic delivery of the keys means added responsibility for the maintenance of the University in the high standards of morals and scholarship which a university must have."

In conclusion, he pledged the continued support of the trustees in the effort of the officers of the University to build the greater George Washington University, and thanked the "generous public that has, during the recent canvass for funds for the Building and Endowment Fund, contributed sufficient money to make possible the erection of this magnificent building for the Arts and Sciences Department."

President Lewis, after accepting the keys to Corcoran Hall, addressed a graduating class of 79, the first class to graduate in the new building. He urged them to dedicate their lives to thought, as Corcoran Hall was that evening dedicated to the purposes of learning.

Speaking of the time saved by the devices of civilization, President Lewis remarked that "certainly only a small part goes to quiet contemplation of personal and national problems. But if we do not thus utilize it, our own careers and the life of the nation are in jeopardy. At the cross roads of civilization the stop sign is turned against us. Dedicate yourselves to a spirit of thoughtfulness."

Dr. Lewis called attention to the fact that this convocation had a deep interest and significance because of the dedication of the new building which immediately preceded it. "This occasion is a milestone in the useful history of the institution. It marks a constructive step in the development of a far-seeing plan for the provision of adequate and artistic equipment. It stands as a living memorial to one who did much for his fellow men."

"You will gain inspiration from this dedication if you interpret it in personal terms. The dedication of a life to a great cause is even a more important thing than the dedication of a building. You have in your university training built a structure of knowledge and mental power. Will you dedicate that structure to the service which the world needs or will you devote it to the cultivation of selfish things? You who have had the benefit of university training should dedicate yourselves to a constant seeking after truth. Your broader education should begin with your entrance into active life."

In conclusion, the President urged the graduates to build their foundations for life strongly and well that

NEW LITERARY MAGAZINE TO BE PUBLISHED SOON

Successor Of The Pendulum Will Combine Literary And Humorous Endeavors

"The Silver Rod," a magazine of literary, semi-humorous nature, will make its appearance upon the campus shortly after Thanksgiving. Although it is a private undertaking at present, it is the hope of the editors that it may prove popular enough among the students to later develop into a University publication. The staff is made up of C. D. Baker, editor-in-chief; Meador Wright, business manager; E. S. Shepard, Thomas H. Seibert, Willard Webb, Harry Gilstrap and Carpmills Flood, members of the editorial board. The columns of the magazine are open to all students in the University. Those desiring to submit literary selections should leave their copy at Paul Pearlman's book store, or with any member of the staff.

"The Ghost" is in exile at present, and it is feared by many that its spectral wanderings are doomed forever. Since its last appearance three years ago, there has been but one attempt to print a magazine of unofficial nature. Last year the class in English Composition published two issues of "The Pendulum," which proved popular among the students. The editorial board of "The Silver Rod" is composed largely of those who were editors or contributors to "The Pendulum."

TO STAGE MOVIE BENEFIT FOR SCHOLARSHIP FUND

A movie benefit will be given at Moore's Rialto Theatre the week of November 10th to 14th, inclusive, to swell the Columbian Woman's Scholarship fund. "K" the picturization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel, will be the feature of the entertainment.

Tickets sold at the theatre will not be credited to the scholarship fund, so, if possible, they should be procured from Marguerite Daly, who will be in charge of the sale of tickets at the University.

PHI DELTA PHI SMOKER

Phi Delta Phi held its first smoker of the year at the University Club Thursday, October 23. Colonel Thorpe, international claims lawyer and authority on prohibition law, the speaker of the evening, told of his experiences in Abyssinia when he was a lieutenant of Marines.

The province president of the fraternity, Attorney Ross of this city, spoke relative to Phi Delta Phi; and Prof. William Cabel Van Vleck, Dean of the University Law School, spoke of the relationship of legal fraternities to the study of law.

SPECIAL DEBATE FRIDAY ON FEDERAL COURTS

Team Of Intercollegiate Debate Is To Challenge Final Power Of Courts

Students of debating fame and prominence will be matched against each other at the next meeting of the Columbian Debating Society, Friday night at 8 p. m., at the Law School, in a debate upon the question: "Resolved, that the courts be deprived of the final power of declaring federal statutes unconstitutional."

The question is one of national interest, and with participants of marked talent on both sides, the debate should prove one of the best of the school year.

The affirmative side will be composed of Washington Irving Cleveland, a member of the debating team that defeated Oxford last term; Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., manager of men's debate; and Miss Vivian Simpson, former secretary of the new Mercer Literary Society, a debating club of the University of Maryland.

The negative will be made up of J. O. Cade, a member of the George Washington team which recently met Cambridge; A. H. Moran, alternate in the Cambridge debate; and Miss Ruth Newburn, who recently won second honors in the National Oratorical Contest.

As a further attraction, Dr. Charles E. Hill has consented to address the society. All students in the University are invited.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED BY THETA DELTA CHI

Forty-five members of the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity gathered at the University Club Thursday night, October 30, to celebrate the seventy-seventh birthday of the fraternity, which was founded in 1847 at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.

Senor Cayetano de Quesado, Cuban Consul and nephew of Dr. Gonzalo de Quesado, first Cuban Minister to the United States, was the guest of honor of the occasion.

Freshmen of the local chapter presented a short three-act play entitled "Why Girls Leave Home" as a feature of the evening's entertainment. Stanton Judkins Peelle, Chief Justice of the Moot Court of Appeals of the George Washington Law School; Prof. George Washington Phillips, professor in chemistry; John Russell Mason, assistant librarian; and members of the local chapter were present at the banquet.

Following the banquet a reception was given by Senor Quesado at the Meridian Mansions.

Similar dinners were held throughout the country where two or more members of the fraternity could get together. The key dinner was held at the National Club of Theta Delta Chi in New York City.

FRATERNITY ASSOCIATION PLANS NEW CONSTITUTION

A new constitution for the Interfraternity Association is now being considered by the various member-chapters of the fraternities of the University. At the meeting of the association at the Delta Tau Delta House, Sunday, November 2, copies of the proposed constitution were distributed among the delegates for the consideration of the chapters which they represent. Final action on the adoption of the new constitution will be taken at the next meeting of the association at the Phi Sigma Kappa House, Sunday, November 16.

SENIOR CLASS MEETING

A special meeting of the Senior Class of Columbian College has been called for tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Corcoran Hall to select a class ring, plan for a Senior Prom, and other Senior activities. Every Senior should be interested enough to attend!

STUDENT BRANCH A. S. M. E. ELECTS FIRST OFFICERS

Under the able guidance of Gilbert K. Ludwig, presiding officer, the Mechanical Engineers, meeting as a student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, elected their officers for the present school year, discussed qualifications of new members, and made plans for the year's work. Officers elected are: Gilbert Ludwig, President; R. Best, Vice-President; W. H. Lawrence, Secretary, and W. H. Seaguest, Treasurer.

In his opening remarks Mr. Ludwig urged the society to consider joint meetings with the Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at George Washington with those of the Catholic University and the University of Maryland. He pointed out that it would be mutually beneficial for the three branches to co-operate.

After some little discussion the matter of qualifications for new members was left up to the executive committee headed by Prof. Johnson.

The present membership enrollment in the Student Branch has been increased to twenty, but it was decided to continue efforts until the active membership has been increased to at least forty students.

FOREIGN TALENT SECURED FOR LECTURE SERIES

Winter Lectures, Begun Last Year, To Be More Popular Than Ever

While in New York during the later part of the week President William Mather Lewis arranged for several internationally known lecturers to come to Washington this winter and speak at a series of public lectures which will be given under the auspices of the University.

Several English, French and Italian lecturers of note will visit this country during the winter, and it is expected their tours will start with George Washington.

This lecture course, which was started by the University last winter, has made a profound impression. Last season the series of lectures embraced the field of art, literature and drama. During the summer and while the National Educational Association was here the University presented several notable government officials in phases of their work.

The broadening out of the lecture series to be international will no doubt be of unusual interest, both to the student body and the public in general. Now that the University is equipped to take care of large gatherings in Corcoran Hall and the new gymnasium it will have a centralizing influence which will build up an even larger following of these lectures than last year.

GLEE CLUB REHEARSALS BEING WELL ATTENDED

The Men's Glee Club had an excellent rehearsal last Thursday evening in Corcoran Hall just after classes. This seems to be a convenient time for rehearsals because there were more present than at any previous meeting.

New songs with catchy and attractive airs have been selected by the new director, some of which the club has already practiced. The club, through the addition of many new members, is becoming well balanced and will soon be whipped into shape.

The Glee Club is offering another advantage to those interested in training their voices for professional work by giving special instruction at low rates of tuition.

Director Harman told the men last Thursday that singing in the Glee Club is a joy and not a duty. The club is primarily for men who like to sing, and who will accordingly give their time and energy for it. He also pointed out that a developed voice is an asset both socially and financially.

The next rehearsal of the Glee Club will be held Thursday evening in Room 17 of Corcoran Hall, beginning promptly after classes and lasting for one hour.

Black And Blue Jays Escape With Tie In Contest At Homewood

LAMAR KICKS FIELD GOAL

Buff And Blue Outplay Opponents In Three Quarters With Loehler Starring

Johns Hopkins' powerful Black and Blue eleven considered itself exceedingly fortunate in holding the big Buff and Blue machine to a 3 to 3 tie, after a hard battle at Homewood Stadium, Baltimore, last Saturday before more than 5,000 spectators. The Hatchettes completely outplayed their more famous opponents in all but the second quarter, and but for several decisions by the very incompetent officials would have won by 14 points or more.

Early in the third period the Hatchettes carried the ball to the Medicos 6-yard line, and Loehler smashed it over the goal line. The referee, after studying the situation for several moments, walked over to Resh who was hanging onto the goal post and called him for holding, penalizing G. W. 15 yards, and adding five more for alleged delaying of the game, thus nullifying the touchdown.

Again in the last period, Dick Newby went to the Bluejays' 2-yard line for a first down. After being tackled he arose from over the pigskin and a Marylander fell on it. The referee ruled that it was Hopkins' ball. These two decisions alone cost G. W. 14 points, while numerous others of the same type kept the ball in midfield during the latter part of the third quarter.

George Washington made nine first downs to five for the Doctors, and completed three forward passes for a total of about 20 yards. Neither team intercepted a pass during the contest.

Nearly a thousand Hatchette supporters crowded the west side of the stadium, and with their 25-piece band, led by Manuel Commulada, gave old Baltimore a demonstration of real G. W. spirit. "Pep" Balter and his cheering section answered the Hopkins cheer leaders yell for yell.

Many members of the George Washington faculty and many of the Alumni were on the sidelines.

One of the Baltimore newspapers called the Buff and Blue eleven a "Mystery Team," as if seeking an excuse for Hopkins' virtual defeat. Reports that several G. W. stars had been injured had been floating into Baltimore all the week, and the Medicos did not know what to expect Saturday. George Washington convinced everyone present that it was the better of the two teams.

Loehler was the outstanding star of the contest. His punts were long and high, averaging nearly 60 yards, and he tore through the line at a terrific pace at will. Bo Lamar ran the team well and played a wide-awake game. His running back of punts and his drop-kicking featured the contest. Kris, Goldman and Zollar were the front-line stars. The entire team fought hard and deserved a decisive victory.

For Hopkins, Taylor was the individual star. He was their only ground gainer, and played his quarterback position well. Turnbull was outpunted, and his drop-kick was from an easy position in midfield.

Captain Hotel won the toss, and elected to receive. Lamar received the ball on the 5-yard line and went 22 yards before he was downed. A punting duel between Loehler and Turnbull ensued, with the edge well in Loehler's favor. Both teams tried out their passes towards the end of the period, G. W. completing the only one for a gain of 3 yards.

The Bluejays recovered a Hatchette fumble toward the end of the quarter and went to the 25-yard line. Turnbull tried a placement kick that went low and wide. The period ended with the ball in the Medicos' possession on their 38-yard line.

Several punts, a fumble, and three incomplete passes took up the first part of the second quarter. The middle of the quarter found the ball in the possession of the Bluejays on their 30-yard line. A series of brilliant line plunges by Taylor carried

WASHINGTON, D. C., NOVEMBER 4, 1924

IS VICTORY ALL?

What is better than a victory? We can think of nothing better, unless it is a team that can accept unfair decisions in a sportsmanlike spirit and still tie the score. Victory won by unfair means can be no credit. Defeat unmerited, if accepted in a spirit such as that of the George Washington football players, is a victory in itself.

What school could feel proud of a team which refused to lose and could not win in fairness? What school could fail to feel proud of a team even though it should go down to defeat at every game if it played in a spirit of fairness and sportsmanship?

Not only is this spirit necessary in football but it is necessary in every field of sport and in every walk of life. Nothing will take the heart out of a team quicker than a seemingly unjust or unfair decision, and nothing can break the spirit of a man in business quicker than misfortune.

But whether in sport or in business, the man or woman who can smile and come back with a determination to win is the man or woman who will find ultimate success. It is only those who weaken in adversities that fail.

WE'LL SAY HE SHOULD BE!

"I am very much pleased with the showing made by the George Washington student body at the game. It shows that G. W. is waking up to the fact that it has a real football team," are the words of Coach Crum immediately following the Johns Hopkins game in Baltimore last Saturday.

Coach Crum is perfectly justified in this feeling. An aggregation estimated at nearly a thousand, composed of students, alumni and faculty members—probably the largest body ever to witness a University game away from home—thronged the west bleachers of Homewood Stadium and cheered their favorites on to the greatest game of the season.

What student cannot be proud of his team after a game like that played on the home field of the famous old medical college? Surely the fact that they failed to win a justly deserved victory does not lessen that pride.

Last year Johns Hopkins defeated the Hatchettes 62 to 0 in a one-sided game, and the year before George Washington suffered a 40 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Medicos. This year Hopkins has another strong team, and to see a Buff and Blue aggregation that can outplay the Black and Blue boys in a game such as the one witnessed Saturday will create a fine spirit in any student body.

NOVEMBER.

November is a deadly month, W. Pearce Raynor says more people are killed and injured in traffic accidents during this month than at any other time.

Park policeman says more people get bruised cacos from squirrels dropping nuts out of the trees, and more sidewalks get cracked by unsteady guys slipping on wet leaves and crashing down like huge meteors than at any other season.

bands drooping like wilted flowers, having been overcome by the size of bill for wifie's fall outfit. Fall is a good name for it; some men fall dead when they pay for it and others let caution fall to the four winds when they see beauty thus arrayed and propose on rheumatic knee. Then the season is always fall for their dollars.

Politicians frequently go in mourning during this month because of the great number of rising hopes which are killed. 'Tis a fatal time for the vote-shy candidate.

But the turkeys run the biggest risk and sadly gobble death wails while awaiting the last rites of oyster dressing and cranberry sauce.

CONTESTS TO SELECT GIRL'S TENNIS TEAM

Loving Cup To Go To Winner Of Series—Highest Eight For Team

A series of tennis matches to decide the women's championship in the University and to select a University tennis team has been scheduled, the completed schedule being posted on bulletin boards in Lisner Hall. Forty-six players are listed.

The finals must be played not later than November 22, and it will therefore be necessary for those listed on the schedule to get in touch with their opponents as early as possible. If games are not played as indicated by dates on the chart the player at fault will be considered to have forfeited the game and thereby eliminate herself from the contest.

The result of each game should be communicated promptly to Ruth Gregory, manager, 3402 Garfield Street, N.W.

The individual champion of the series will receive a silver cup, and from those reaching the semi-finals and finals a University team of eight players will be selected to represent George Washington in a series of games which will be scheduled later.

ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR TO BE HELD OCT. 14

The Y. W. C. A., assisted by Pan Hellenic, is making elaborate plans for the annual bazaar to be given at George Washington University. This year President Lewis has given permission for the event to be held as a house warming for the new gymnasium, and will be given in that building on November 14th, from 12 o'clock noon until midnight.

Several special features are being planned, one of which will be a sketch by the G. W. Players in the evening. There will be dancing for those who enjoy the terspsichorean art, and booths where all kinds of novelties, fancy work and candy will be sold by the sororities who will be in charge of this feature of the bazaar.

"The Ink That Made The Fountain Pen Possible"

Mixing the strains of the Hawaiian Melody Boys with the joyous abandon of the Hallowe'en spirit, the Phi Chi medical fraternity celebrated the annual advent of the ghosts and spooks last Friday night with a dance. Refreshments later in the evening served as a fitting climax to a most successful celebration.

Sigma Nu fraternity entertained with an informal dance last Saturday evening at their Chapter house on N Street. The house was artistically decorated in keeping with the festive season and it is quite evident that everyone enjoyed an exceptional evening.

The Kappa Sigma fraternity celebrated Hallowe'en with an informal dance last Friday evening at their chapter house, 1803 19th Street.

GIRLS' FENCING SQUAD STARTS FALL PRACTICE

With Prof. Lanzilli As Instructor
Prospects For Season Are Promising

The women's fencing team held their initial practice yesterday morning under the direction of Professor Pietro Lanzilli at his fencing studio, 1521 K Street Northwest.

Fencing was introduced in George Washington University last year, and for the first season about twenty-five girls reported for practice. This year at least four of that squad will be available as a nucleus around which to build a strong team for the coming season.

Professor Lanzilli, who has been secured as fencing instructor for the University squad, is an excellent instructor and is very enthusiastic over the prospects for a successful season. He teaches the Italian method of fencing which, while it is harder than the French method, gives a better foundation for progressive fencing.

Uniforms for the most part are nondescript, but by the end of the season it is hoped that regular fencing equipment will be available. Plans have already been made for the purchase of additional foils and masks.

Practice periods have been arranged for Mondays from 9 to 12, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 8, and on Fridays from 10 to 12, at Professor

BASEBALL MEETING

A meeting will be held in the Chapel, Monday evening, November 10, at 8 o'clock, for students who are interested in baseball. Plans for the coming season will be discussed, and the manager is anxious to have all candidates present.

Lanzilli's studio, 1521 K Street. Girls interested in fencing should get in touch with Phoebe Knappen, manager, or report at the studio during the regular practice periods.

PRACTICE TO START FOR GIRL BASKETEERS

Practice for girls' basketball will start as soon as the work on the gymnasium is finished, according to Miss Jackson, the coach.

Probably at first there will be a series of games between the different sororities and then the call for candidates for the varsity will be issued. At present the manager is working on a schedule which when finished will include about 10 games with colleges in the vicinity.

As the men's team will start practice some time in the near future it will be necessary for arrangements to be made so that the practices will not conflict. The schedule will be published as soon as completed.

HATCHETITE ELEVEN TIE HOPKINS SCORE

the ball to the visitors' 25-yard line. The G. W. line braced and held, and after three unsuccessful bucks Turnbull was sent back for a drop-kick. The ball was squarely in midfield, and the kick went over for the first blood of the game. The half ended with the ball in midfield.

Inspired by a rousing talk by Coach Crum, the Buff and Blue swept on the field with renewed confidence. Loehler's kickoff was short and went to Levy. He fumbled when tackled and G. W. recovered on Hopkins' 25-yard line. Loehler tore through the line for 6 yards, made 2 more on the next attempt, and Long went to the 15-yard line for first down. Loehler got 1 yard at tackle, and then went around the end for 8.

It was G. W.'s ball on the 6-yard line. Loehler went over for a touch-down on the next play, but the referee called a 15-yard penalty for holding, and added 5 more for delaying of game. Loehler went through tackle for 12 yards. Bo Lamar stepped back and placed the ball squarely between the uprights from a difficult angle, tying the score.

After an exchange of punts, Hopkins fumbled on their 40-yard line, Vaun Wagner recovering. The referee decided it was Hopkins' ball, however. Failing to gain through the line, Hopkins kicked. Loehler returned the punt. Hopkins made a first down on a fake buck. Hopkins fumbled and Zollar recovered for G. W. Long fumbled on an attempted cross-buck, and it was again Hopkins' ball.

Failing to gain, Hopkins punted, and Loehler returned the ball to their 40-yard line. Kris recovered a fumble but the referee again gave the ball to Hopkins. Taylor fumbled again as the quarter ended, and it was G. W.'s ball on their 45-yard line.

The final quarter found Coach Van Orman's men in the shadow of their own goal posts, fighting to stave off defeat. Several punts were exchanged as the quarter opened, Loehler's superior kicking driving the Black and Blue team back on each exchange.

With the ball G. W.'s in midfield, Loehler punted over the Hopkins goal. The ball was put in play on the 20-yard line, and Taylor fumbled, Bowen recovering for G. W. Dick Newby was injected into the game, giving Hopkins a scare. Newby made 4 yards off tackle. Loehler went to the 10-yard line for first down. Newby went around left end for what appeared to be a touchdown, but he ran outside on the 6-yard line. Two line bucks netted but 1 yard each, and Lamar tried another drop-kick. The ball was headed on a line for the uprights, but a Bluejay leaped into the air and deflected its flight.

G. W. recovered on the 14-yard line. Loehler made 5 yards, then 1 yard. Newby took the ball to the 2-yard line. After being tackled he got up off the ball, and a Bluejay gridman fell on it. Mr. Maxwell, referee, gave the ball to Hopkins. Hopkins kicked to the 30-yard line, and a placement kick failed as the game ended. G. W., though tied, walked off the field victors from every point of view.

A banquet was given the G. W. team in the Blue Room of the Hotel Belvidere after the game. Coach Crum took 36 men to Baltimore in a special coach.

Thomas A. Edison and Charles P. Steinmetz in the Schenectady laboratories of the General Electric Company, where Dr. Steinmetz did his great work

Steinmetz

The spirit of Dr. Steinmetz kept his frail body alive. It clothed him with surpassing power; he tamed the lightning and discharged the first artificial thunderbolt.

Great honors came to him, yet he will be remembered not for what he received, but for what he gave. Humanity will share forever in the profit of his research. This is the reward of the scientist, this is enduring glory.

Emerson tells how the mass of men worry themselves into nameless graves, while now and then a great, unselfish soul forgets himself into immortality. One of the most inspiring influences in the life of a modern corporation is the selfless work of the scientists in the laboratories, which it provides for their research.

SWIM PRACTICE STARTS WITH BIG SQUAD OUT

Coach Brunner, Of Men's Squad, To Assist In Coaching Girls' Team

The girls' swimming squad got away with a big start yesterday when they held their first practice in the Y. W. C. A. pool. A number of veteran swimmers will return to the squad this year, and together with the addition of a large number of new entrants the group this year looks very promising.

In addition to Mary Jackson, director in physical education for women, F. J. Brunner, who is coaching the men's swimming squad, will be present at most of the practices to assist in instruction.

According to the present schedule, practice periods have been arranged for the George Washington University squad from 4 to 5 on Mondays and Tuesdays, 7 to 7:40 on Wednesdays, 3:20 to 4 on Thursdays, and 1 to 2 on Saturdays. Only the one evening period was open at the time arrangements were made for the women's squad to practice at the Y. W. C. A., but efforts are being made to secure at least one more evening period for those unable to attend practice during the afternoon.

It is required that girls coming out for the swimming squad should have a physical examination. Dr. Borden, the University physician, will be glad to make these examinations, upon presentation of activities coupon books, at his office in the Rochambeau Apartments from 3 to 5 any afternoon.

PLANS ALL COMPLETE FOR JOURNALISTIC HOP

Hal Stutz Southern Syncopaters will furnish music for the dance to be given Tuesday, November 18, in the new gymnasium by Phi Delta Epsilon and Gamma Eta Zeta, men's and women's honorary journalistic fraternities.

This will be one of the first big social functions to be held in the new gymnasium. Elaborate preparations are being made by the committees for the two organizations and this will undoubtedly be one of the outstanding events of the pre-holiday season.

The new gymnasium has a wonderful floor and will provide an excellent place for large social gatherings. Besides the journalistic fraternities' dance on the 18th, other social events are being planned for the near future.

CHI OMEGA INITIATES PROMINENT ATTORNEY

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General of the United States, was initiated as an honorary member of Chi Omega women's fraternity by Phi Alpha Chapter, of George Washington University on Monday, October 27th.

In addition to the members of the local chapter the ceremony was attended by Mrs. Mary C. Love Collins of New York, National President of the fraternity, and Mrs. Vesta L. Watson, National Treasurer of the organization.

A luncheon given by the local chapter in honor of Mrs. Willebrandt at the Hamilton Hotel was attended by Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Watson, Anna L. Rose, Dean of Women of the University; Lydia Jane Kincannon, Registrar; Mrs. Frank C. Page, Virginia Diedel, Mrs. George Shaw and Dorothy Mondell.

PENN MILITARY COLLEGE NEXT ON SCHEDULE

Four More Games This Season Left On The Buff And Blue Schedule

With only three more games before the annual clash with Catholic University, the George Washington football squad will not relax in its strenuous training. The game next Saturday with Penn Military College will be played at Chester, Pa., and will undoubtedly be another victory for Coach Crum's squad. However, the Pennsylvanians have been playing good football this season and the home team cannot be too overconfident.

The Saturday following the Penn Military College game George Washington will play Delaware University, probably away from home. The last game of the season before the Turkey Day game with Catholic University will be played against Buffalo University at Buffalo, N. Y. Local fans have probably witnessed the last game of the Hatchette team before Thanksgiving.

Coach Crum has been highly pleased with the interest and enthusiasm of the student body in supporting the home games this season. Especially is he gratified by the attendance at the Hopkins game Saturday in Baltimore. "I am very much pleased with the showing made by the George Washington student body at the game. It shows that G. W. is waking up to the fact that they have a real football team."

MANAGER STOKES PLANS ANOTHER CHAMP TEAM

American Olympic Star To Coach G. W. Rifle Team Again This Year

With facilities that can be surpassed by only a few institutions, the George Washington University rifle team this year will make its debut with unusual advantages over the crack aggregations of former years. The new range in the basement of Corcoran Hall gives G. W. U. a foremost position in a sport in which it has always been one of the peers.

Practice sessions will be held in the new building instead of various places in the city as heretofore. The new plan in regard to student activities fees will also favor the rifle squad.

Manager William Detweiler is enthusiastic over the prospects for this season and will soon sound the clarion call for candidates. Many new men are expected to report as interest in the rifle sport increases from year to year, and especially this season with a home habitat. With Capt. Gerald R. Trimble as a nucleus, Coach Walter R. Stokes, former world champion and a member of the 1924 American Olympic rifle team, is sure to develop another championship combination. A hard schedule is being completed by Manager Detweiler, but if the record of preceding teams is to be taken as a criterion, G. W. U. will once more rank with the leaders.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB SHOWS RAPID PROGRESS

The girls are out to make Glee Club a major activity at the University this year. With nearly a hundred enthusiastic students under the able direction of Miss Estelle Wentworth, the organization is progressing rapidly. Concerts and chapel programs are among the treats promised.

Because the assembly room could not be used last week practice was not held, but yesterday at 12:15 the girls started strong. The officers, Edith Finney, president; Mary Frances Weigel, vice-president; and Henrietta Bowen, treasurer, are working hard to increase the number of members and improve the work done.

Arrangements are also being made so practice can be held in the evening for those girls unable to get out for the regular practice at 12:15 every Monday.

LARGE SQUAD NEEDED FOR HOCKEY PRACTICE

The girls' hockey team meets every Tuesday and Friday afternoon in Room 29 of Building No. 4. Mary Jackson, new women's athletic director, who will coach the hockey squad this season, is showing the girls many new strokes and games. She is very anxious to have girls enough to form two teams, of eleven members each, for practice.

Hockey is comparatively new as an athletic sport in George Washington, and many girls have shown a keen interest in it. Hockey is to girls what football is to boys, and the new coach is confident that a very successful season is ahead. She especially urges girls to attend the meetings now being held Tuesdays and Fridays.

Clay Powell, as Bill; Elsie Talbert, as The Girl; and Vincent Gould, as Bob.

COLUMBIAN DEBATERS ENDORSE COOLIDGE

President Wins Support In Debate On Relative Abilities

Calvin Coolidge received the endorsement of the Columbian Debating Society at their weekly meeting Friday night, October 31, by a close vote upon the question: "Resolved, that this house endorse that presidential candidate best qualified for the office, in view of the present political situation."

A three-cornered debate was held, with Wroe Alderson and Albert R. Beatty presenting the cause of Coolidge; C. K. Fierstone and Samuel Watson supporting Davis; and Meador Wright and Joseph Mendelson upholding La Follette. The Coolidge supporters were victorious by a 2 to 1 vote of the judges, Albert R. Beatty receiving first honors and Samuel Watson honorable mention.

Despite the fact that the debate fell on Halloween, 65 were present, including a larger attendance of women than at any previous meeting. The following persons were elected to membership: Paul D. Gables, Burns D. Price, M. J. Pittan, Carl Flora, F. H. McBeth, A. G. Johnson, Mary Gummel, Elsie Wright, Miss Williams, and Miss Simpson.

The opening of Corcoran Hall showed that the majority of G. W. U. students are not in the habit of using rear entrances or probably the jam at the front entrance would have been relieved. Some one not yet onto the fact that the building also has several side doors.
